About the Conference Theme

Gender sensitivity in society is need of the present. it's time to talk about it open mindedly. People having different gender identity which is not commonly accepted in society puts a question mark to be answered. Transgender are the people whose personality, appearance and behavior differs from the suppose to be men or women. These people were existed in almost all culture, race, class and period of time. They were called 'kinner' and 'shikhandy' in pre-historic period. in the present time society and law acknowledged a respectable identity by using term 'thirdgender' or 'transgender'. it is defined that a person who have characteristics of neither completely man like nor completely woman like. in other words a person who has mixed identity of man and woman. Transgender who feel that they are having wrong sex and this feeling is expressed through their dressing, life styles and sexual behavior. Psychologically transgender people are those whose gender identity is not clear (gender dysphoria).

Researchers, NGO's, social workers, psychologists, judiciary and medical persons all are keen to understand their dilemma, difficulties and trying to suggest strategies for their social, psychological, academic and clinical well being. Feeling of rejection from family and society, mental blocks, non acceptance in peer group, unusual and un healthy gestures and comments in their surrounding leads them to live silently with privacy with feeling of isolation. They are bound to live with and around people like them.

It is an interesting fact that transgenders have some gifted talents. Internationally remarkable number of transgenders have achieved status of celebrity in society. in india also many transgenders have achieved a great social, academic, political identity and acceptance.

In the year 2019 in article 40, honorable supreme court of India constitutionally acknowledge transgender to have valid entitlement of equality of all human rights like all other human beings have. This provision opened to get free them from their dilemma of what to mention in the gender column.

Objectives of the Conference

Present research event is a sincere effort to bring researchers to a common platform where representative of different segments of society will have brainstorming sessions to find out some effective strategies to reduce problems related to transgenders to make their life more acceptable and more comfortable.
